“ I just learned of his passing a few days ago and my heart hurts...This man was my step-dad from the time I was 15 on...legally anyway but I never considered him less than that so forth. Even though I did not spend much time with him during his last few years, Ed will always be in my heart as my step-dad. Ed taught me at a young age how to be responsible and accountable. He taught me work ethics that I still use to this day and are surely a huge part of my success. Ed treated me like his daughter, he drove me to school everyday and helped with whatever I needed help with. He provided for me financially and emotionally. Ed was a great human being and had a heart full of compassion...he was a great dad.

Love you always Ed.

“ This was a while ago, and my memory is faded by too much of everything. Paul was still with us, and one day Edward told us that one of his buddies from the Oakland A's had just opened a restaraunt in Oakland and he had an invite.He told us to wear a coat and tie and a nice shirt cuz it was a classy place and we were gonna eat gourmet style for free. Neither myself or Paul figured out the joke till Ed was nearly at the Oakland Colisium ...Damn..... A day on the Green with The Dead and me and Paul looking like Narcs!
I still owe ya for that one Bro,
Love ya,
